Foreword

Our vision for a better Brighton & Hove for all

My love for the city runs through me like a stick of Brighton rock.

It's fabulous and flamboyant, bold and beautiful. As a community we dare to be different; we value diversity and challenge discrimination.

Whether you were born here like me, or came here by choice or circumstance, we all deserve to live in a city that we can be proud of – where everyone is included and has the opportunity to grow and thrive.

We know that there's inequality and injustice throughout the city and hardship felt by many of our residents. And a great desire to see essential every-day services restored and revitalised.

It's knowing what people want and need that drives me. I am determined that this council will deliver the services the city deserves and will alleviate hardship. We are close to our residents, visitors and businesses. We actively listen and respond to their needs.

As a resident I've experienced first-hand how vital the council, its partners across health, education and economy and our incredible community and voluntary sector organisations are to the life of the city.

Global challenges are having a big local impact. Every day we see an increasing need for care and support, a cost-of-living crisis causing hardship for our residents and businesses, while public sector budgets continue to be under strain.

So, it's more important than ever before that we work together with our staff and residents and with communities and local organisations to deliver action.

We are not just words. This is our plan setting out the real things we will do to create a better Brighton & Hove that can deliver real change and decent public services from the seafront and city centre, up to the suburbs and the South Downs.

Whether you live, work, study or just visit, our vision is that Brighton & Hove can be:

- A city to be proud of – we will champion a flourishing economy and a sustainable, safe and clean environment
- A fair and inclusive city – with homes for all, we will work to reduce inequality, challenge discrimination, improve accessibility and keep people safe
- A city where people can thrive – we will secure a better future for children and young people and enable people to live healthy and fulfilling lives
- A city of responsive and well-run council services – we will put the needs of our residents, businesses and visitors at the heart of what we do and enable our hard-working staff to do their best

While I don't underestimate the challenges the city and the council faces, I promise we will work hard, and I know we can meet them together and unlock our potential.

Leader Brighton & Hove City Council

Introduction

Delivering the council's vision

Our residents and elected leadership have given us a clear steer on their vision and priorities. Above all, they have told us what they want to see changed to make this city a better Brighton & Hove for all.

Change is not always easy. There are many big challenges facing the city, from the climate emergency to the cost-of-living crisis, increasing inflation and inequality. More people need our public services than ever before.

We are determined to face up to these challenges, working actively with local people, our vibrant voluntary sector, local businesses, the NHS, schools, colleges, universities, emergency services and others.

I can see from my time here already that Brighton & Hove is a dynamic city with a wealth of talent, creativity and ambition.

Our plan sets a direction of travel for the council. Real change takes time and if we want to see a positive impact, we need to take an integrated approach across the council and strengthen relationships throughout the city and beyond.

Change can start from within, and we will continue to transform the way we do things and drive improvement across our services.

We will modernise and make use of data, new technology and digital innovation to bring us closer to and better serve our communities.

At the heart of this council, and delivering the plan for 2023 to 2027 are our hard-working staff. We will keep Our People Promise to our staff. As one of the largest employers in the region we will enable them to do their jobs well and work to recruit and retain the very best talent for council services.

I know that by building on the strengths of this organisation, the opportunities and partnerships within the city, the leadership and management of services and the ongoing dedication of our staff, we will achieve great things for Brighton & Hove.

Interim Chief Executive

An inclusive and fairer city

Why this is important

Everyone should feel included and valued. We want to remove barriers that exclude people from services and prevent them from succeeding because of their identity, background or circumstances.

Diverse residents' views, experiences and needs should be central to the decisions we make and the services we provide. Listening to and working alongside people will help us to improve access to and the inclusiveness of services that will help people flourish and feel proud that they belong to Brighton & Hove.

The council will embed equality, diversity and inclusion in its mindset, policies, and practices. We are committed to becoming an anti-racist city. Designing and providing anti-racist, inclusive and accessible services for all should be our standard. All our services must recognise the multiple barriers many individuals face.

Through collaboration with residents, communities and voluntary organisations, we will use our combined assets to make sure no one is left behind. We will invest in the community and voluntary sector to support and empower the most vulnerable and make them stronger.

We aim to be a welcoming city where everyone can thrive, including those seeking sanctuary.

What we will do

1. Engagement and collaboration

- Publish a community engagement framework setting out what communities can expect from us when we talk to and work with them
- Develop a council wide approach to digital engagement and consultation – enabling a more agile approach to listening and responding

Our goal is to keep people safe and to create a city that is welcoming for all

Why this is important

There is no place in our city for fear of crime, violence, or abuse. We will seek to ensure that Brighton & Hove is a place where everyone feels safe.

By tackling crime and antisocial behaviour, we aim to foster a sense of security across the city. We recognise that not all public spaces are accessible and welcoming for everyone.

Homes for everyone

Our goal is to deliver accessible, affordable and high-quality homes for all residents of Brighton & Hove

Why this is important

Access to decent quality, affordable housing is fundamental. It is key to people's wellbeing. A place to live should be a basic human right.

Housing supply in our city is limited and housing is expensive. We need to ensure that best use is made of our land and properties because we don't have enough homes for all those who want to live here.

We know that some people who grew up here leave because they can't afford to rent or buy in the city. Standards in some private rented homes are unacceptably low and more people than ever are at risk of homelessness.

It is important for us to understand what life is really like for the people we support, and identify and address the complex barriers faced by our diverse communities.

We want to make sure that all children and young people in the city get the right help at the right time. We will focus on preventative work to help families to be safe and stable.

Living and ageing well

Our goal is to promote and improve health and wellbeing, to reduce health inequalities and to support people to live independent and fulfilling lives

Why this is important

Everyone should be able to live a healthy, happy, and fulfilling life, but inequality can affect people's health.

People in the most disadvantaged parts of Brighton & Hove spend more than twelve years longer in poor health than people from the least disadvantaged areas. We need to narrow this unfair gap.

The council spends a significant proportion of its budget caring for the most vulnerable. With an ageing population with complex needs, more people need health and social care services than ever before. So, there is more pressure on budgets. We must find a way to maximise the resources we have.

To achieve this, we will work collaboratively with other statutory, community and voluntary sector organisations to deliver the services that are needed.

What we will do

1. Enable people to live healthy, happy and fulfilling lives

- Ensure that council strategies, policies and services promote better health and wellbeing for all and reduce unfair differences between the most and least healthy
- Work with local partners to develop plans to
  - help people to be physically active and maintain a healthy weight
  - promote good mental health and reduce the risk of suicide
  - improve sexual health
  - reduce the harm from tobacco, alcohol and drugs
- Support people to age well and make Brighton & Hove an age and dementia friendly city

2. Provide joined up services and ensure everyone has access to the information, advice and services they need

- Improve how we offer information, advice and support to help people stay healthy and independent and to access the care and support they need
- Develop joined-up community teams so that health, care and community services work together
- Seek to continuously improve the opportunities for diverse people with lived experience to influence and improve services

3. Ensure there is safe, effective, sustainable and high-quality health and care provision in the city

How this plan will be delivered

This council plan and its priorities are supported by a range of strategies and workplans which set out in more detail what the council will deliver to achieve our vision of a better Brighton & Hove for all.

Themed strategies and plans, some of which are statutory requirements, include the Housing Strategy, Economic Strategy, Local Transport Plan, Corporate Parenting Strategy and Homelessness Prevention Strategy.

Some strategies are agreed jointly with our partners, for example, the Joint Health and Wellbeing Strategy and the Greater Brighton Energy Plan.

The council Budget and the Medium-Term Financial Strategy outline how the council's financial resources will be used. The Budget provides information on the council's annual income and expenditure and the Medium-Term Financial Strategy describes how the council intends to use its resources over a four-year period.

Plans to improve the council's effectiveness, and to modernise our ways of working, are set out in our Business Framework, Our People Strategy, the ICT and Digital Strategy and corporate modernisation programmes.

Our Fair and Inclusive Action Plan and Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Strategy aim to create cultural change and lead to more equitable ways of working and delivering our services.

Directorate plans provide details of the key actions, projects, timeframes and measures that support the delivery of the corporate plan. These are updated annually.
