DIRECTOR OF RESOURCES AND BUSINESS SYSTEMS

drinkaware

WELCOME

Thank you for your interest in Drinkaware and becoming our new Director of Resources and Business Systems.

Drinkaware is the UK's leading alcohol charity. Our mission is to use our expertise to give government, industry, communities and individuals the knowledge and support to make informed decisions about alcohol and how to reduce the harms it can cause. We deliver our work through public facing campaigns and digital services, information and guidance, evidence led advice to governments and industry, and independent research, consumer insight and evaluation.

Drinkaware is a pretty unique charity, with bold ambitions to reduce alcohol harm in partnership with those around us. We have strong brand awareness for a small organisation, great digital tools and services and a motivated and capable staff team. We're supported by over 300 industry organisations.

We're now in the process of bringing together a new team of senior leaders who can help continue to deliver our transformation. We're looking for people who are more than subject matter experts – people who can lead a portfolio of different functions with drive, determination and care. And we need people who can lead change, whilst bringing our team and our stakeholders on the journey and empowering those around them.

As Director of Resources and Business Systems, you will play an essential role as the lead on the wider business management and financial oversight of the charity. All our work starts from our research, evidence and impact – as such we are looking for people who are fluent in the use of data and have a generally broad frame of reference which goes well beyond merely finance. You will be an experienced qualified accountant, with proven financial acumen and a track record within senior roles, or willingness and ability to step up to a more senior role, focusing on financial planning and management. In addition, you will bring experience of HR management, as well as overseeing IT business systems and digital transformation initiatives.

We're seeking individuals who can take responsibility for strategic goals, and who understand how to carefully curate stakeholder relationships across their team, to ensure they are managed and grown. We need to build and extend our insight into our external relationships and reorient our team to focus outwards.

This is an exceptionally exciting time to join Drinkaware, as we're reshaping ourselves to work more dynamically and collaboratively across a complex landscape, as well as to harness the power of partnership working, behaviour change campaigns, high quality research and insight to help more people drink below the low risk drinking guidelines.

If you share our commitment to reducing alcohol harm and believe you bring the experience, drive and commitment we need to drive our impact even further, I very much look forward to hearing from you.

Karen Tyrell
Chief Executive Officer

ABOUT US

Together with our network of academics, industry experts, governments, and other key stakeholders, we are capitalising on conversations around alcohol and making it possible to share our advice, tools, and evidence with many more people.

We deliver our work through:

- Public-facing campaigns and digital services, information and guidance
- Evidence-led advice to governments and industry
- Independent research, consumer insight and evaluation

As a society, our relationship with alcohol has shifted over the last 20 years. Many things have improved, particularly the number of young people choosing to drink less, the significant increase in the uptake of low alcohol and alcohol-free products and a reduction in binge drinking. However, some trends are moving in the wrong direction, including the recent rise in alcohol specific deaths.

We believe that everyone has a shared responsibility for the culture of the society we want to live in. Our work is helping to shift the conversation around alcohol, making it more normal to talk about our drinking habits and reducing the stigma. A cultural shift is needed where addressing alcohol-related issues is met with empathy and understanding rather than judgment.

Like the cost-of-living crisis, alcohol related harm is also not experienced evenly across the population. People on lower incomes, or living in the most deprived communities, are disproportionately affected – experiencing a significantly higher rate of alcohol-specific deaths and alcohol-related hospital admissions than those living in more affluent communities.

As a society, community, and as families, we need to be able to talk more confidently, openly, and honestly about alcohol and the part it plays in our lives. Making that more possible is our task.
